July 2017

The Summer of Love?

In the ruins of Coventry Cathedral there is a statue which is now called 'Reconciliation.' It depicts a man and a woman finding each other again and embracing, falling on each other's shoulders, after being separated by the forces of history, specifically war in Europe, and is by the artist Josefina de Vasconcellos. It captures something of the poignancy of brokenness, and also of the hope and promise of a future. It was used by the Queen as the image to open her Christmas broadcast in 2015, and still speaks to so many of the need and possibility of reconciliation in the world.

It seems that each year that goes by brings the need for reconciliation between different ideologies and different power groups into our minds with greater urgency. The conflict in Syria, the bombing in Manchester and the continuing nightmare of life in Afghanistan invade our TV screens and social media in an apparently unstoppable tide of threat to our hopes for peace.

The season of summer always seems a time when we should be able to 'just chill out' and hope that such forces will pass us by. That's a nice idea, but one that doesn't carry much reality. Instead, God calls us to an honest reckoning of the brokenness of the world, but also to faith in Christ and the reconciliation which he was bringing through him, through the cross, the resurrection, and the pouring out of the Holy Spirit. In this diocese we are called in a special way to recognise brokenness, but not without hope – and to pray in confidence for the coming of God's Kingdom which overcomes division, which restores the broken to one another, and which offers a new inclusive community to all.

In our prayers this month, can we pray for those who aren't able to share the rest and refreshment of the summer holidays, and for those individuals and organisations who labour to bring peace and hope to places that are broken? And as we do that, to ask God's Spirit to heal our own brokenness, that we may ourselves truly bear peace to those with whom, we spend these summer weeks.

Focus on Alcester Deanery

Alcester Deanery lies to the west of Stratford and Warwick on the far western edge of Coventry Diocese. The three biggest communities by far are in the west of the deanery, close to the boundary with Worcestershire, spread out along the route of the Roman Road, Icknield Street. These are the ancient market town of Alcester (pop.ca. 6200), and the large villages of Bidford (pop.ca. 5400 to the south and Studley (pop. ca. 5900) to the north.

Whilst there are pockets of light industry, particularly near Alcester, Studley and Bidford, the deanery is quite rural. The deanery has 31 churches, some in beautiful settings and for at least two parking is in the adjacent farmyard. Some churches are in the heart of their community but others are a way outside. The deanery used to comprise more than 30 parishes (currently 24).

For its last major reorganisation, the deanery was asked to plan for just 6.5 stipendiary clergy. In order to achieve this, there was some voluntary, informal re-grouping of parishes which, so far, has resulted in the creation of 4 new united benefices, but two parishes have yet to find a home. Serving multiple communities scattered over wide areas is quite a challenge for the clergy. While there are some non-stipendiaries and lay ministers, a lot of reliance is also put on retired clergy. In fact, we are particularly blessed at present to be served by retired Bishop Christopher Morgan as temporary Acting Area Dean. Two benefices are currently in interregnum which, in a deanery with so few stipendiary clergy, also presents a challenge to church wardens seeking ministers to lead their services.

However, as is well illustrated by the additional articles, the Church is alive in the countryside, reaching out to the young and non-church goers, though, with aging congregations this is not easy and the deanery very much needs your prayers and also support to sustain it and grow it for the future.

Friday Hot Chocolate at Arden Marches

In March 2011 the Friday Evening Hot Chocolate project started when a group of adult volunteers from our parish set up a table in a car park to serve free drinks and biscuits to any young people who stopped by. Six years on around 15 volunteers are on the rota, with 3-4 people going out every Friday evening.

We aim to show the young people in the village that they are cared about, by having a regular place for them to come for a drink and a chat when they are 'out and about.' By talking and listening, we have established a mutual respect and have not witnessed any bad behaviour.

Numbers fluctuate with the time of year, ranging from no drinks served to over 40. We have watched many young folk 'grow up' from coming to us with a parent after swimming, using the skate park, riding bikes or scooters, to now updating us about their jobs, driving their motorbikes or cars into the car park and still having a hot drink! Some Friday's we just hand out drinks and biscuits with very little talk from the young people; other weeks there may quite a bit of banter and, occasionally, deeper conversations about school, exams, holidays, friends, lack of facilities, politics, faith and numerous other topics.

Parents bring their children and people in the village walking by recognise us, including the community police. In December 2016 we had a planned visit from Bishop John and our group of regular 15 – 16 year olds had quite a serious chat with him.

People come to see what we are doing and are surprised when we tell them it is free. Resources are donated by our congregations or sometimes local people passing by who want to give to something they recognise as being worthwhile. Hot Chocolate continues to be a part of a regular witness within the village.

A young woman came to see what we were doing and told of her childhood experience. Her Mum worked until 10pm so she would often be 'out and about' fending for herself. A safe place to get a drink, a biscuit and talk to people who would listen to her would have been so nice. She said "we never know the lives these kids have and what we do is just great."

The team and our prayer supporters feel we have a ministry to be out amongst those who need to know that they 'are loved' for who they are.

St Matthew's Salford Priors Community Group

Outreach took place early in 2009 where members of St Matthew's knocked on doors in the village to see what needs there were in the village and what assistance they believed their local church could provide. As a result a Community Group was set up in June 2009 and meetings have taken place every week since.

Meeting the villagers on their own doorstep, we discovered that although many people didn't come to church, they still were searching for something spiritually and had lots of challenging questions. They also didn't know their immediate neighbours.

We set up the Group facilitated by two members of St Matthew's church to meet once per week where people could come on their own agenda and over a cup of tea or coffee and a chocolate biscuit (the chocolate biscuits are very important!) and discuss what is on their minds. There are no Bibles, no prayers, no hymns or songs, just an open discussion in a friendly, unthreatening environment for people who are searching for truth and meaning in a society where meaning is often hard to find. That's not to say that the facilitators don't speak about the wonderful message of Jesus; they do, but they are led by what the Group members want to discuss, and the Holy Spirit will do the rest.

The Group typically has a membership of approximately 8 – 9 people, where 10 is a comfortable group size beyond which it is more difficult to maintain a setting where everyone gets the opportunity to speak if they want to. The Group still grows in numbers through word of mouth. Group members have built strong friendships among themselves where they support and encourage each other and have found a sense of belonging and identity. Some members now attend St Matthew's regularly, others attend other local churches and for the rest who are at an earlier part of their journey, the Group is another "fresh expression" of church.

Prayer would be welcome for the group members and facilitators; for strengthening their relationships, for opening their hearts to hear the Good News and for protection for them all in their individual journey in faith.
